1. The Rostock-Marienehe (M 55/O 82) airfield was unoccupied on 28 December 1949. A match factory and fish cannery were housed in the former Heinkel Plant installations. Another large industrial installation was under construction.
2. A Soviet Zone German police unit of about 100 men was given recruit training on the landing field on 10 January 1950. The foundation walls of a hangar were being erected between the airfield and the large tank installation, along the Rostock-Warnemuende (M 55/O 82) railroad line.
